WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS

ONCE UPON A TIME—That magical phrase that brings to the mind of each of us joys, heartaches, and adventures. We, in combining these, have composed for you our "Song of the South." We have tried to capture that "zip-a-dee-do-dah" feeling with the gay antics of Uncle Remus and all his lovable characters.

Our days at M. H. S. are but a chapter in the long continued story of our lives. We hope this annual will at least be a memorable page in that chapter.

And so, with the hope that you will enjoy every page from "once upon a time" to "happily ever after," we give you our "SONG OF THE SOUTH."

In Memoriam

Gentle in manner and attractive in appearance; loyal to those with whom she worked; kind to the ones she taught; generous in giving of her time and talent to advance the cause of education; because of these and other admirable qualities, Mary Carter will live on in the hearts of all who remember her as mentor, counselor, and faithful friend.

Dedication

With deepest appreciation for her sincere interest in students, her encouragement and promotion of the use of the library, and her willingness to cooperate in school projects, the members of the annual staff are proud to dedicate the 1959 CAT'S TALE to our librarian, MRS. MYRTLE L. BEACH.

Once upon a time, deep in the heart of North Carolina, there stood a school known fondly to all as Morganton High. This building was endowed with the love of the students who, each day for four years, tread their way to its doors. Morganton High School brings to their minds not merely a building, but a glowing pride that can be expressed only as the "spirit of M. H. S."

ALMA MATER

From the mountains to the sea
Rings a sound that's dear to me.
Waking, sleeping, still I hear
"ALMA MATER dear."

No matter where I choose to roam,
You will always be my home.
Singing praises to the sky
For dear old Morganton High.

ADMINISTRATION

Our superintendent, Mr. Maston Parham; our supervisor, Mr. Otis Peterson; and their secretary, Miss Martha Noogle; keep not only M. H. S. but also all the other Morganton schools running smoothly.

LET US BEGIN BEHIND THE SCENES, WHERE MANY OF OUR PROBLEMS ARE SOLVED BEFORE WE KNOW THEY ARISE

Looks like the school board members are having an important discussion—Nathan Cooper, Mrs. C. P. Reinhardt, Charles Carey, Maston Parham, Chairman Jess Barbour, Mrs. E. W. Phifer, Frank Bowers, Ted Bost, and Claude Russell. Mrs. Paul Cash, not pictured.

First to come; last to leave!

Excused or unexcused? What is the verdict?

To Mr. Schiebout, our principal; and Mrs. Stroupe, his secretary; go our unending thanks for making life at M. H. S. pleasant and well organized.

Must be an important announcement at assembly.

Well, somebody had to do it!

DID YOU KNOW THAT ONCE UPON A TIME . . .

Mrs. Beach played hookey and went fishing.
Coach Broome flunked Latin I two times.
Mrs. Carey had grasshoppers that could walk a tight rope.
Mr. Clark ran away from home.
Mr. Redmond played the ukulele.
Mrs. Green bloodied her brother's nose.
Mr. Furr was a speed demon.
"Put" let the air out of tires.
Coach Harris took French 1 day.
Mrs. Kidd loved peanut butter.
Mrs. Littleton loved blackberry jam.
Mr. Snyder failed Physics.
Miss Teter ate in school.
Mr. Neely was a motorcycle fiend.
Miss Seagle had a passion for Pepsi's.
Mr. Schiebout climbed trees.
Mr. Setzer had his footprints on his room at college.
Mrs. Amos used to have chicken funerals.
Mrs. Roberts constantly had to stay after school.
Miss Weber was just a brat?

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

 You're encore's next, so take your bow.
 The lights are dimmed, the finale's due,
 The spotlight's on, now there's your cue!
 The play's a story of love and strife;
 Curtain going up, next act—YOUR LIFE!!

Senior Class Poem

HIGH SCHOOL

We shall treasure memories of these four years,
Remember the excitement, joys, and fears;
Think about what we did long years ago,
Ponder on memories that we value so.

First came the ninth, the grade of beginning;
Then we were Sophomores, the ladder ascending.
Next year we were Juniors, nearer the top.
Now we are Seniors, and proud? yes, a lot.

We recall subjects which our teachers taught,
Although many times against them we fought;
English, history, science, and math, too.
Now we wonder how much to us got through.

But on weekends we left studies behind,
And into football games and dances we lined.
Too, there was track, baseball, and basketball,
Sports for everyone, spring, winter, and fall.

All of these things have made up our four years.
We'll trade them for nothing, in spite of the tears,
Because our future in so many ways
Will be shaped by these memorable days.

JOYCE ROSS

Poet

Senior Class History

We entered high school in September of 1955, a large group of bewildered Freshmen. Used to our privileged position as the Seniors of Junior High School, we were in a completely new world. We knew very few people and had no idea of where to go or what to do. We were eager to do everything just right, but because of the superior attitude of the upperclassmen, we were afraid to assert ourselves very strongly. After several weeks we began to get adjusted and were even less awed by the Seniors. We elected the following officers that year: Lynne Branch, president; Bruce Lowdermilk, vice-president; Rebecca Williams, secretary; and Wayne Grady, treasurer. We tried our skill at tumbling, bouncing on the trampoline, and playing basketball. We tried to comprehend Shakespeare's plays and, to our surprise, we found that it wasn't too bad after all. That year swiftly came to an end, and we looked eagerly ahead to our second big step toward the completion of our high school education.

We now thought of ourselves as sophisticated Sophomores. We would look down on the "green Freshmen" and were less envious of the upperclassmen. We became experts on the identification of insects and leaves. We toiled long and diligently over Silas Marner and Julius Caesar. Some of us were the envy of the class because one long-dreamed-of event had finally taken place—we had received our drivers' licenses. We were guided through that important year by these officers: Bill Bransstrom, president; Charles Wintzer, vice-president; Judy Graves, secretary; and Gail Brittain, treasurer.

We were now a part of that envied group of upperclassmen. To lead the Junior Class we selected as officers: Vernon Winters, president; Charles Wintzer, vice-president; Judy Graves, secretary; and Gail Brittain, treasurer. That year we had one important goal toward which we were working—the Junior-Senior Prom. With grim determination we policed the football stadium and manned the concession stand, as we vowed to make this prom the best Junior-Senior yet! No one begrudged the hard work, though, when we learned that the "Old South" theme met with the approval of everyone.

Commencement marshals were also chosen from our class that year. The students chosen were Joyce Ross and Paul Helminger, chief marshals; Emily Barnwell, Andy Crawley, Ann Barbour, Vernon Winters, Sylvia Fowler, Bill Browning, Jeanette Gray, and Tommy Franklin.

At last we were that favored group—Seniors! It seemed as if the responsibilities of the school rested upon our shoulders. It was up to us to set a good example for the underclassmen. Our officers were: Vernon Winters, president; Lynne Branch, vice-president; Gail Brittain, secretary; and Marcia Dean, treasurer. To write the Senior specialties we chose the following: Gail Brittain, testatrix; Betsy Hutchins, prophet; Joyce Ross, poet; and Lynne Branch, historian. Our football team was under the capable leadership of co-captains Charles Wintzer and Vernon Winters.

Now, even though we realize that all good things must come to an end, we still feel a little sad. We start remembering the past—the pep rallies, sock hops, and the many football games. We remember our teachers, who patiently tried their utmost to instill some grains of knowledge in us. We remember the "gang" and all the good times we've had. We'll remember these things as long as we live, but one night will be especially clear in our minds—graduation night. So as we walk through the halls of Morganton High School for the last time, we are extremely thankful that we'll always have memories.

Senior Class Will

We, the Seniors of Morganton High, in order to form a more perfect school; establish all our abilities, hopes, and possessions for the benefit of the Juniors; insure ourselves that they are being left in good hands; provide the rising Senior class with qualities they will be expected to possess next year; promote a better understanding between students, faculty, and parents; and secure the blessings of homework to anyone who stays at home; do ordain and establish this "The Last Will and Testament" to the rising Juniors of Morganton High School, in the town of Morganton, county of Burke, and state of North Carolina.

- I, Bill Browning, leave my ability to keep a straight face even when it's not necessary to Dennis Bradley, who thinks everything deserves a laugh.
- I, Jimmy Hairfield, will all my car magazines to Arthur Sharpe, who has a pretty good collection already.
- I, David Radar, leave my ability to drive a car even when I'm not in one to Joe Whisenant and Johnny Mack Strickland, who just love ears.
- I, Jonnic Lingerfelt, leave my long hair to Jo Lynn Shull, so that Jo Lynn will have something to keep her warm next year.
- I, Pat Nichols, leave my ability to get the band all tuned up to Markey Jones, who has to take over next year.
- I, Vernon Winters, leave my irresistible ways and title "Mr. Everything" to Scott Summers.
- I, Jean Ann Wall, leave my clear complexion to Mary Ruth Puett.
- I, Betty Arney, leave all my running around to Carolyn Harris, because I prefer to make my last run down the aisle.
- I, Jean Clark, will to Bunnie Salisbury my neat appearance and pretty clothes.
- I, Betsy Hutchins, will my love for tall good-looking college men to any junior girl who happens to like tall good-looking college men.
- I, Irene McGuirk, leave to Norync Mitchell my ability to be most likely to get burned up if Morganton High ever caught on fire.
- I, Charles Wintzer, leave my ability to play a good game of football to John Mace and Tommy Puett.
- I, Sylvia Fowler, will my own special "Fowler Dictionary" and my book entitled "How a Rocket Is Constructed" to Elizabeth Fleming.
- I, Duggy Branch, leave my sweet smile and pleasant disposition to Linda Tune and Rebecca Miller.
- I, Ralph Green, will my ability to be the only one not talking on the band bus to Jim Weller.
- I, Sylvia Leonhardt, will my quiet ways to Faye Whisnant.
- I, Tommy Franklin, will to Melvin Cohen my ability to persuade everyone to ride the student bus next year to all the football games.
- We, Edward Arrowood and Edwin Arrowood, will our ability to look alike to Teddy Lambert and Bennett Harrison, who have never been mistaken as twins.
- I, Knolan Benfield, leave my ability to get the most out of a horn to Henry Cantrell and Joe Clark, who are content just to get the most out of life.
- I, Shirley Snipes, will my love for athletics to Pat Barry.
- I, Vivian Amos, will my good looks and cute ways to Rebecca Clemmer.
- We, Joyce Parton and Donnell Smith, leave our ability to know a lot without saying much to Brenda Lowman and Hildreth Stroupe.
- I, Gerald Cox, leave my station wagon to Randy Starrett, so that Randy will have something to haul all his admirers and girlfriends in.
- I, Howard Houck, leave my hot rod ear to Larry Gragg in case Larry has to escape rather quickly from one of his wrestling matches.
- I, Paul Helminger, leave my book entitled "What It Takes To Be A Genius" to Allen Lennon.
- I, Joyee Ross, leave all my scratch paper and artistic ability to Sandy Houpe, and all my brains to Carole Suddreth.
- I, Billy Craig, will to Wayne Cannon and Darrell Ledford my ability to get all the school bus children to school in one piece and on time.
- We, Nancy Berry and Dorothy Copenhaver, will our scientific ability to Jane Earp and Sandra Light.
- I, Philecta Clarke, will to Sharon Bristol my record "Let the Good Times Roll," because we both believe life is just one good time.
- I, Jerry Duckworth, will to Wayland Plaster and Braxton Melton my drum sticks, so that Wayland and Braxton will have something to fight the girls off with.
- I, Carl Lane, leave my loud voice, which automatically yells, "You're still at attention," to John Berry.
- I, Anne Franklin Parsons, will my ability to become a homemaker to Ruth Whisenant, who is still looking for that certain one.
- I, Rebecca Williams, will my ability to keep all the boys guessing and to drink every Pepsi I can get hold of while I'm trying to make up my mind, to any Junior girl who can afford to take up these habits.
- I, Greer Suttlemyre, leave my neat appearance and my ability always to have something to say to everyone to Millard Riggs.
- I, Jan Norvell, will my good looks and blonde hair, which never needs touching up, to Cookie Wilson.
- I, Frankie Phillips, will my ability to dance so well to Wynda Kay Kirby, who can really go to those fast records.
- I, Howard Kincaid, will all the paper bags, which are not used where I work, to Leroy Mull, so that Leroy will have something to carry his golf equipment around in.
- I, Jack Earley, leave my love for good music and modern dancing to Jerry Short, who, I have heard, likes to participate in both of these cultural activities.
- We, Sandra Smith and Joyce Grady, leave our pleasant smile to Faye Riddle.
- I, Dottie Tuttle Simmons, leave my smallness to Margaret Smith, so when Margaret blushes she can hide herself almost anywhere.
- I, Philip Abernathy, leave my ability to snow the younger girls to Jesse Cole, who seems to go for the older ones.

I, Joe Ben Seagle, leave my position on the "Paper Cup League" to James Johnson, Doug Avery, and Wayne Arnold, depending on who gets there first.

I, Ann Barbour, leave my book entitled, "What It's Like To Live In An Annual Room" to Reta Sain.

We, Tommy Farr and Ronnie Black, will to Bill Poteat, Joe Huffman, and Byron Gentry all our ambition and determination to make next year's football team the best yet.

I, Dick Griffin, will all my old Reader's Digests, which I have torn the coupons out of, to Eddie Bailey, so that Eddie will have something to remind him of that certain author in that particular Reader's Digest.

We, Joyce Poore and Bobbie Robbins, leave our ability to speak Spanish to Margaret Tolbert, Rebecca Powell, and Joyce Powell, because more cats are getting run over and pretty soon "Cat Talk" will be a dead language.

I, Nancy Higgins, will my ability to overhear everything that's going on just for the benefit of the Cauldron to Marty Paisley, who just loves to help Nancy snoop around.

I, Maxine Grady, will my pink sweater to Martha Parrish, because the last time Martha saw hers it was going out the high school window.

I, Martha Smith, leave my job at Roses to Clarice Green.

I, Judy Barrier, leave my long dark hair and pretty eyes to Beverly Littlejohn.

I, Gay Davis, will my ability to get in the show free to Marsha Anderson, because Marsha likes to go to the movies just about as much as she likes to throw parties.

I, Norman Wiseman, leave my quiet ways (even when it means being different) to Charles Goodnight, Charles Carswell, Wayne Pearson, and Ralph Ballew.

I, Jeannette Gray, leave to Germaine Queen all the ability and strength it took to put out the Cauldron this year.

I, Claude Pittman, leave my seat in chorus to Sherrill Austin or Ted Moretz, who are always walking around rearranging the chairs or fixing a strange design with the music stands.

We, Peggy Williams and Frances Rhyne, will to Ann Franklin, Pat Ollis, and Delene Johnson that certain smile that comes first to every Dixette, and a record "All Shook Up" to practice by.

We, Sylvia Abee and Emily Barnwell, leave our pleasant smile and sweet dispositions to Martha Booth and Patricia Williams.

I, Sharon Ivester, will to Woodie Beach my ability to demonstrate in 1959 what the 1980 styles will be, but one boy in school seems to really go for Woodie and her 1980 styles.

I, Steve Williams, leave my neat masculine appearance to Billy Wortman, to whom everyone refers as tall, dark, and handsome.

I, Jerry R. Duckworth, will my ability to be seen and not heard to Charles Davis, Barry Swain, James McLean, and Vance Moore, because we all believe that silence is golden.

I, Betty Jo Carpenter, will my long hand notes on shorthand to Pat Goodnight, so she can do her history homework in three hours instead of the usual four.

I, Andy Crawley, will my ability to play the guitar to Bill Rudicil, so Bill will be able to entertain all the "drugstore cowboys."

I, Dale Lybrand, will my little mischievous smile to Benny Rockett and Jimmy Connelly, so they can use it to influence others.

We, Johnny Berry and Wayne Hedrick, leave our love for classical or semi-classical music to Billy McFadden, so Billy will have something to entertain him while he is filling up all the cars with gas.

I, Henry Beck, will all my paper cups, which I have kept to remind me of my year playing for the "Paper Cup League" to Jerry Scott and Wade Stack, who will probably be next year's star players.

I, Alton Sims, leave my ability to just barely get to my classes on time, because I am always delayed in the hall, to Victor Parks.

I, Roy Murray, will to Louis Putnam all the memories and fun we had being in office practice together this year.

I, Terry Towery, will my ability to pour Pepsi's at a terrific speed to the delight of all the customers to Wayne Whisenant, who has a lot of orders to take care of at the movies.

I, Charles Fox, will my ability to never be in a hurry and to do everything the slow way to Bobby Barrier and Henry Watts, who are always trying to give three minute oral reports as if they had only one minute to live.

I, Jackie Boyles, leave my record "They Try to Tell Me He's Too Young," which brings back a lot of old memories, to Janice Pritchard, whose favorite record for a long time has been "Where Are You Little Boy?"

I, Marcia Dean, leave all my Spanish II notes, which I have tried to keep in perfect order, to Barbara Puett, who has yet another year to go.

I, Sara Harbison, leave my ability to let people know I'm around to Martha Harbison, who has to keep the Harbison name in the minds of all the teachers for another year.

I, Jean Keaton, leave my initials J. K. to Jean Kean, who will get them whether I leave them or not.

I, Edwina Moses, leave my ability always to add something to what's been said to Doris Piercy and Minta Orders, who are always so busy studying that they don't know what was even said to begin with.

We, Doris Willets and Judy Reichert, will our record "Short Shorts" to Patty Wacaster, because shorts look pretty good on all three of us.

I, June Johnston, will my piano, which I play so well, to Licata Puett, so Licata can practice all summer on next year's chorus music.

We, Sylvia Jean Brown, Mary Bruns, and Sylvia Harris, will to Carolyn Whisnant and Norma Self our ability always to pay attention and to cause as little disturbance as possible.

I, Sally Smith, will the use of my car, which I get to drive a lot, to Judy Setzer, so Judy will have a way to work at the hospital every day after school.

I, Nelson Causby, will my car to Buddy Allman, so if Buddy ever gets homesick he can make a quick trip North, but I wouldn't advise him to make any quick trips South.

I, Geraldine Ball, will my good grades in history to Helen Singleton.

We, Margaret Seitz and Becky Hawkins, leave our nice friendly personalities to any Junior girl who has this characteristic.

We, the Senior Class, do sign and approve this to be our "Last Will and Testament."
Signed: THE SENIOR CLASS

Senior Class Prophecy

"All right, Gabriel, let's not overdo it. You can stop blowing your horn now, because I think everyone is here. Yes, watch out, here they come!

Crash! Bang! Thud!

"O. K., O. K.! For goodness sake, don't tear down the Pearly Gates! Everyone is going to get in, so don't get so excited. Just be nice and calm, and I will introduce myself. I am Saint Peter, and, as you know, you are about to enter the Pearly Gates, so you must conduct yourselves a little more orderly. There, now, that's better.

"Now, let me see. According to my list, this group is originally from Morganton, North Carolina. Hmm. I believe everyone is here. No, I believe that we have a late-comer who is just arriving. Let's see, who is that? Why, that's Irene McGuirk! Since she has been a missionary in China all these years we will excuse her for being late.

"Now, let's look over the books and see where you folks have been, what you have been doing, and whether or not your records are worthy enough to allow you to come in.

"Everything is here in the books, so quiet down back there, Miss Sara Harbison. You can't talk your way in here, although you did talk your way into becoming North Carolina's very first lady senator.

"I see that Greer Suttlemyre and Jackie Boyles finally made Hollywood, and are very famous for their many movies, and also their generous works in the charities for less fortunate actors.

"Dr. Paul Helminger, the well-known scientist, almost beat all of you here when the moon-bound rocket, in which he was riding, missed completely. Fortunately, his superior scientific 'know-how' got him back to Earth unharmed. Assisting him in this project were two famous missile experts, Madame Dorothy Copenhaver, and Dr. Nancy Higgins.

"Lawyer Frankie Phillips, has spent her life working on the great problem of 'adult delinquency,' and has won many cases in courts presided over by Judge Andy Crawley, a very distinguished, solemn gentleman.

"In the great measles epidemic of 1999, the world-famous physician, Dr. Tommy Franklin and his nurse, Judy Barrier, saved many lives. They went to Alaska, and there saved the lives of Betty Arney and her sister-in-law, Rebecca Williams, wealthy ski instructors. Edward and Edwin Arrowood also owe their lives to Dr. Franklin and Nurse Barrier. When stricken with measles, these boys were working in the Iron and Steele Factory of Australia, where they would iron all day and steal all night. The superintendent of this factory, Terry Towery, would not have been superintendent for forty years if it had not been for this doctor and nurse. Ray Franklin, a T.V. repairman in Africa, was also saved.

"In the Greene and Black School for Underprivileged Children, started by the millionaires, Mr. Ralph Greene and Mr. Ronald Black, wonderful work was done by the principal, Sylvia Jean Brown. This school is outstanding for its physical education department, run by Jan Norvell, the Olympic swimming champion; and the Olympic diving champion, Judy Reichert. These two lady athletes worked with the girls, while the boy's department was run by Tommy Farr, the famous center of the No Sox football team. The Home Economics department was run by Mary Bruns, who taught the girls to bake a cake and sew a fine seam.

"Well, from my list, it looks as if we have a Gabriel II in this crowd-----the well-known band leader, Knolan Benfield, standing near the gate with his trumpet under his arm. I also see the clarinet teacher, Jean Keaton, with her instrument under her arm.

"Jeanette Gray, famous editor of the Newless Journal, has covered many great events during her career. Among them, the story of Steve Williams, and how he became Coach of the Year after a perfect season; the heart-warming story of how Margaret Seitz, a Red Cross worker, saved the lives of six people during the Catawba River flood; and the thrilling story of how Johnny Berry invented instant water to use with instant coffee.

"While working in her lab on a cure for New Guinea jungle rot, Sylvia Fowler almost met with a disaster while lighting her Bunsen Burner. Scientist, Nancy Berry, working in the lab at that time, helped get everything under control.

"Mademoiselle Doris Willets, who spent a great part of her life in France, after missing the boat to America in 1959, has done a wonderful job of conducting tours through the Mont-Saint-Michel.

"My, this is a good-looking group: but naturally it would be with the beauty queens Vivian Amos, Miss America of 1960, and Jonnie Linger-felt, Miss America of 1961. They both wore evening dresses especially designed for them by the famous designer of New York, Miss Gay Davis. Miss Davis, who had her schooling at the Sorbonne in Paris, has designed dresses for such outstanding people as the beautiful model, Jean Ann Wall; the Broadway dancing star, Sharon Ivester; and the Metropolitan Opera star, Gail Brittain.

"Lynne Branch and Donnell Smith, prominent librarians of Burke County, covered many miles with their bookmobile. They made weekly visits with their books to the plantation of Henry Beck, who was too busy raising tobacco to get into town.

"Joe Ben Seagle was voted 'Man of the Year' in 2000 for his fine work in Boy Scouts, and during the same year, Philecta Clarke won a nation-wide Hula Hoop contest. I see from my list that the year 2000 was an important one for several other people. That was the year that Vernon Winters was elected governor of North Carolina. He was elected after a great campaign led by his campaign manager, Charles Wintzer, the outstanding public speaker of his state. Governor Winters and Speaker Wintzer were helped very much by their faithful secretary, Emily Barnwell. This same year, Howard Houck came in first in the Tail Pipe Derby and was assisted by his able mechanic, David Radar, who got his start at an early age puttering around with his little black car. The last, but not least, important happening in this year was the promotion of Marcia Dean to Treasurer of Drexel Furniture Company. She started handling money way back in 1959, when she was class treasurer.

"I see from my records that Drexel was fortunate in having some other members from this group. June Johnston worked her way up from office girl at Lazarus to office manager at Drexel. Sylvia Harris, with her pleasant voice, was telephone operator there for many years. One other member working for Drexel was Jerry R. Duckworth. He was one of their outstanding salesmen, and once in his travels, he ran into mechanic Jerry M. Duckworth, who repaired his differential at Greasy Garage.

"Joyce Ross, basketball player, substitute teacher, and artist, received much praise for painting the statue in the court house square in Morganton.

"A wonderful work was done by a courageous team behind the Iron Curtain. Sally Smith, noted dietitian, headed the team. Other members were Pharmacist Dick Griffin, who, while over there, discovered Vitamin F for flat feet; the outstanding teacher, Sylvia Leonhardt, who explained the American educational system; and soil expert, Billy Craig, from the University of Gravel, who took his tractor with him. This fine team was sponsored by the Voice of ACIREMA, which spells America backwards.

"Congratulations, Jack Earley. I see that you finally succeeded in getting your own television panel show, I'VE GOT A LINE, and you had four mighty good panel members, too—Professor Dale Lybrand, better known to his students at Lybrand University as 'Creep,' Mr. Norman Wiseman, the famous expert on nuclear physics; Miss Maxine Grady, noted hair stylist, especially for red heads; and the famous freckled woman athlete, Miss Shirley Snipes. Your show was a great success because of the fine work of your crew—Wayne Hedrick, who was head cameraman; Nelson Causby, head of the lighting department; Dottie Tuttle, in charge of make-up; and Bobbie Robbins, who came up with unusual set designs.

"I see that wealthy Jimmy Hairfield, who has made millions of dollars in the car industry, has given a big part of it to charity. His last car was the 'LIGHTING BUG' designed by the expert Bill Browning, formerly a designer of ladies' footwear. Bill was assisted by Sylvia Abee, who selected the fabrics and color for the interior. This was a small car and daring. Roy Murray was just the right size to test drive it. The first 'LIGHTING BUG' was sold to Carl Lane, leader of the Marine Corps Band, and he was the center of attraction with his unusual car.

"Joyce's Snack Bar, which was in Kalamazoo, Michigan, was operated by Joyce Poore, Joyce Grady, and Joyce Parton, three of the country's experts in the culinary arts, was famous for Joyce's Juicy Jumbo Burger. People came from miles around just to have a Juicy Jumbo Burger. Among them were Pat Stubbs, attractive governess for Pat Bonne's children; Philip Abernathy, the famous football coach of Michigan State; Becky Hawkins, of the Department of Internal Revenue in Washington; and the noted reporter, Frances Rhyne, who has covered gruesome murder stories all over the United States.

"Captain Gerald Cox, pilot for Trans-Continental Airlines, became famous for his rescue work in the blizzard of 2002. Also famous for the help which they gave him are his co-pilot, Lieutenant Howard Kincaid, and his neat attractive stewardess, Jean Clark.

"Cough! Cough! I wish I had one now.

"The summer months were a busy time for Charles Fox, who ran a camp for boys, called the 'FOX HOLE.' The swimming instructor was the national record holder, Alton Sims. The athletic director, Claude Pittman, produced some outstanding softball and tennis teams at the camp.

"I see that New York City was the headquarters for four attractive young ladies in this group. The graceful Peggy Williams made a big hit as a Rockette in the Radio City Music Hall. Betty Jo Carpenter and Edwina Moses owned and operated an exclusive dress shop on Fifth Avenue. Anne Parsons, the famous globe-trotter, ran her own travel agency on Broadway.

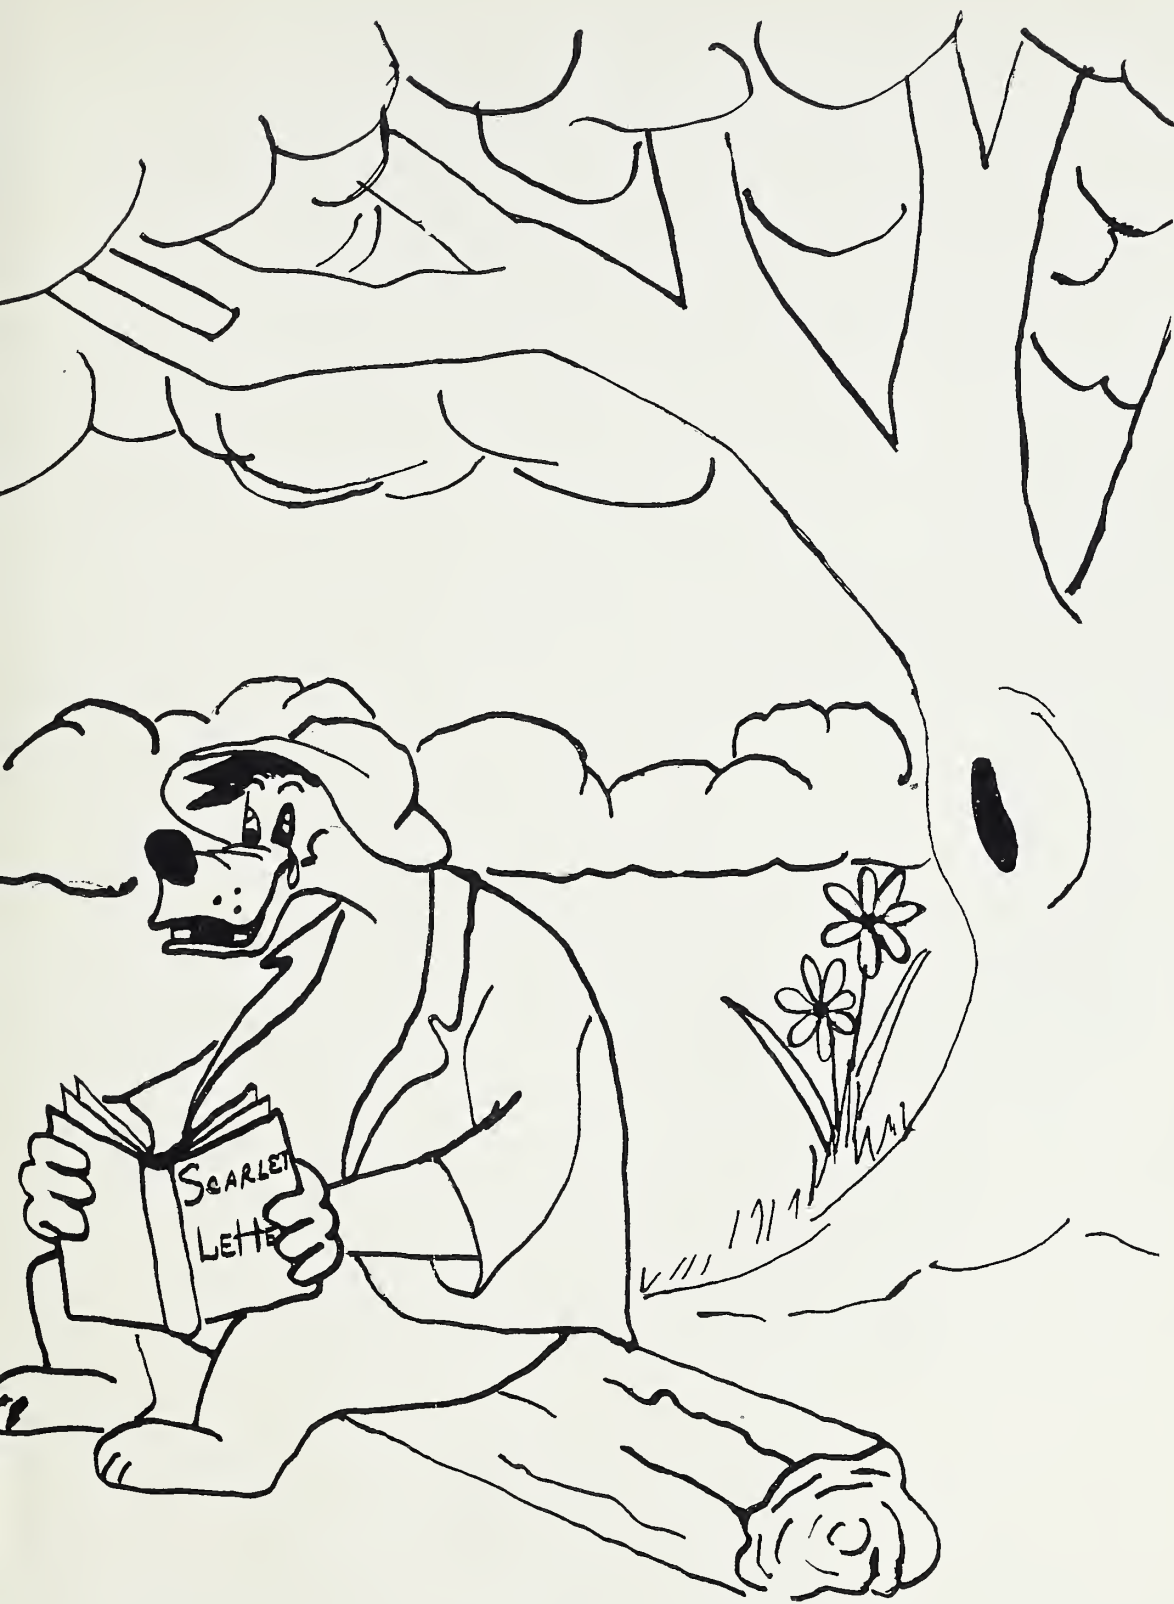

"We have here with us, two of the world's most talented photographers, Pat Nichols and Geraldine Ball, who just happen to have their cameras with them. So what about taking one last picture of everyone, Pat and Geraldine, as they enter the gates? But wait, there seems to be one missing. I wonder what happened to Betsy Hutchins???"

A Junior—magic words, no less!
 Three years ago, why who'd have guessed
 That ages could pass in so short a space;
 They've practically gone without a trace.
 With regret and happiness you know
 There are three years down, and one to go.

Newton-Conover Nips Morganton

NEWTON-CONOVER — Pete Self's extra point following Johnny Varnell's third-period touchdown gave Newton-Conover's Red Devils a 7-6 opening game triumph over Morganton in Northwest Conference play Friday night.

Dwight Street scored Morganton's lone touchdown, also in the third period.

Valdese Shades Morganton, 7-6

MORGANTON — Ivey Pope dashed 19 yards to a first period touchdown and Buzz Perrou kicked the extra point which gave Valdese a 7-6 decision over Morganton here Friday night.

Morganton also scored in the first period. Joe Huffman blocked a Valdese punt and recovered on the Valdese three yard line. Butch Anderson plunged over from there for the score, but Dwight Street's attempted conversion for the extra point was wide.

Hudson Hornets Trip Morganton

MORGANTON—Hudson's Hornets scored one touchdown in the third period and added two more in the fourth to spank Morganton, 20-0, Friday night.

Larry Cline scored the first TD on a four-yard pass from Jimmy Triplett. Oliver Miller and Dennis Sherrill scored the others on one-yard plunges.

Morganton, a three-time loser this season, didn't threaten in the Northwest AA game.

MORGANTON FOURTH VICTIM OF EAGLES

Wilkes Central's high flyer Eagles retained top place in the Northwestern Conference here Friday night with a convincing 19 to 6 win over Morganton before a capacity homecoming crowd.

Morganton Trips Taylorsville Hi

TAYLORSVILLE — Morganton High won its first game of the season Friday night by whipping Taylorsville, 19-0. Both teams now own 1-4 records.

Charles Winters passed to Benny Gray for one touchdown, and Dennis Bradley romped 15 yards for another. Vernon Winters galloped 15 yards for the finale.

Taylorsville's furthest advance was to Morganton's 9-yard line.

MORGANTON Beats Forest City, 30-7

MORGANTON — Morganton High rallied from a 7-6 halftime deficit Friday night and stormed back to beat winless Forest City.

Halfback Dennis Bradley scored two touchdowns for Morganton on runs of 5 and 10 yards. Bill Winters passed to end Bennet Gray for two more Morganton scores and halfback Charlie Wintzer added the final tally on a two-yard buck.

Lenoir Rally Gets Deadlock

Wall raced back with the boot after Morganton had gone ahead 20-13, and Barry Story kicked the tying extra point.

Morganton had taken a 7-0 first period lead, with Lenoir going ahead 13-7 in the third. The hosts came back with 13 in the fourth period to seemingly sew it up before Wall's dash.

Ramsey Leads Marion Win

MARION — Fullback Barry Ramsey scored two touchdowns—including the one that broke open to game—as Marion stopped Morganton 28-7 Friday night.

Ramsey scored the first Marion TD on a six yard run, and broke a Morganton comeback threat with an 85 yard trot with a fumble in the third period.

Ken Morgan ran 9 yards and passed 15 to John Anderson for Marion's other scores.

HHS SQUEAKS PAST MORGANTON, 13-7

MORGANTON — A 45-yard touchdown pass play from Hoppy Huffman to Jimmy Sweezy, coming with Hickory trailing 7-6 and four minutes to go in the game, proved to be a lifesaver as the Hickory High school football team edged a fired up Morganton squad, 13-7, here Friday night.

Cherries Stop Morganton Club

CHERRYVILLE — Cherryville bopped Morganton 26-6 Friday night in a conference game that closed the season for both clubs.

Howard Momesley scored twice for the winners on dashes of 12 and two yards. Velo Kuuskraa sprinted 90 yards for another, and a Butch Long to Cecil Jenkins pass of 18 yards also scored.

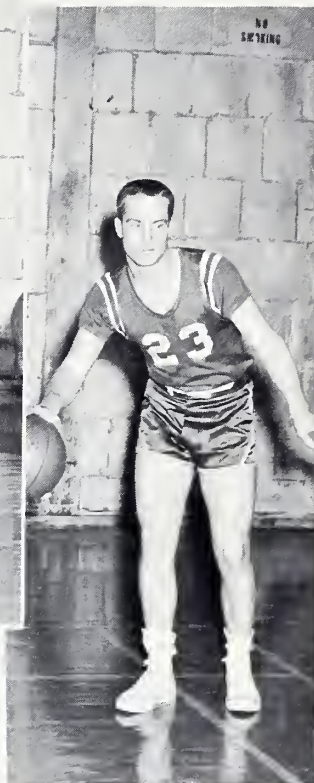

Butch Anderson returned the second half kickoff 60 yards for

THE QUILL AND SCROLL IS COMPOSED OF STUDENTS WHO HAVE EXCELLED IN HIGH-SCHOOL JOURNALISM

Jeanette Gray, as Editor of the Cauldron, has done outstanding work on our school newspaper. This is Jeanette's third year of active participation on the Cauldron staff.

Ann Barbour, Editor of the CAT'S TALE, has worked on the annual for four years. Her main duty is to coincide the wishes of the publisher and the wishes of the annual staff.

Germaine Queen is the Assistant Editor of the Cauldron. During the three years she has worked on our school's monthly publication, she has exhibited talent in the field of journalism.

In one year of work on the CAT'S TALE, Reta Sain has risen to the position of Assistant Editor. She is learning the ropes of publishing and editing an annual.

For her artistic talents and originality, Joyce Ross, the Art Editor of the Cauldron, deserves praise. Joyce can well be proud of her work on the Cauldron during the past two years.

Selling advertisements and learning about the business end of the annual is the job of Allen Lennon, Assistant Business Manager of the CAT'S TALE. Allen will be next year's Business Manager.

Mrs. Neil Williams has spent a great deal of time in teaching these girls the qualities and requirements for a good majorette.

Sharon Bristol, Carolyn Harris, Pat Ollis, Donna Summers, Roxie McMahon, Rebecca Williams, Jackie Boyles, Becky Smith, Vivian Amos, Myra Moses.

After long hours and tireless effort, Mr. Schiebout pauses on the veranda of our colonial mansion to view an "Old South" fantasyland.

The sophomore hosts and hostesses, dressed in the true tradition of the South, "slaved" to help make our Junior-Senior a success.

Years from now, when we come across these pictures in our scrapbooks, perhaps they will help us to relive this most wonderful of nights in our memories.

THIS NIGHT I'LL REMEMBER . . .

THE MARSHALLS DESERVE CONGRATULATIONS, FOR THEY ARE THE STUDENTS WITH THE HIGHEST SCHOLASTIC AVERAGES IN THE JUNIOR CLASS

Thus, we bring this chapter to a close, with the realization that it is only the beginning of the long road before us—a road leading each of us, filled with dreams, hopes, and ambitions, to our place in the future.

As old Father Time has a curious habit of snatching from our memories the vivid details that make past experiences live in our hearts, there is a need for a reminder of even these wonderful, golden years at M. H. S.

So it is to you, the students, that we have presented this annual. It is our wish that it will remain as one of your proudest possessions and dearest treasures always—and that, as you close this book, you will go out to truly live “happily ever after.”
